have seen reports that a body of preachers, recently holding a conference at Timber Creek, Fannin county, Texas, at which Bishop Janes presided, had been dispersed by a mob, but we hoped that the report was either untrue or greatly exaggerated. ever, leaves no doubt that at least nothing more than the truth has been told respecting the matter. The conference was composed, as is unife; mly the case, of the regularly ordained itinerant ministers laboring within a given region, their only subject being to preach the Gospel. But these ministers belonged not to the M. E. Church South, but to the M E Church North, and the slaveholders of Fannin county resolved that their presence should not be tolerated. They therefore appointed a vigilance committee of fifty to wait upon them and warn them not to prosecute further the business of the conference. and to order their departure from the county, on pain of having lynch lav, applied to them. The following appears to be a fair statement of the way in which these gentlemen performed their mission

Doubtless, Mr. Sickles—ne matter what could be said to his prejudice—had been grievous'y wronged by Key. That wrong was a pailiation of, not an excuse for, the homicide which followed. It would have justified the Jury in returning a verdict of Manslaughter, or of Murder in the second degree, with a recommendation to mercy ; it did not and cannot justify a verdict of acquittal.

On what ground could Mr. Sickles' deed would permit him.

On leaving the bex, the jury stood eleven posterous! His counsel did not venture to call his intimate friend and confidential adviser Butterworth, who counseled with him during the greater part of the day on which the bomicide was committed-from whose side he rose to arm himself for his deed of

But we have no right to forget that Sickles was a law-maker, and in that capacity under special obligarespect for the requirements of law. Nor can we forget that he had previously been a member successively of the Assembly and Senate of our State, in neither of which was his voice ever raised in advocacy of severer penaltics for adultery. We have abundant reason for our belief that the laws against adultery as they stand were doesned by him quite penal enough until he learned that the crime had been committed to his own especial prejudice, which sooms to have thrown a new light on the subject to his mind. Thereupon he killed Key, purposely, deliberately, on calculation; declaring, hours afterward, that they two could no longer live on the same planet.
